Looking for proactive ways to help others keep and regain their health, Beavers recently released website stocks the latest range of health and wellness, skincare and essential oil products. These goods aid in the repair and regeneration of inner and outer health and wellness, reduce signs of age, increase muscle tone, and manage weight.

All TLC products stocked on the site are 100% natural. For instance, the TLC Essential Soap contains lemon, eucalyptus, cinnamon bark, clove bud and coconut oil that have therapeutic purposes. Other products stocked on the new TLC website have similar benefits.

TLC began in 1999 and focused on delivering high-quality products that help to change the life of people who buy the products. Lifestyle-centric, TLC aims to exceed customer expectations.

When asked about the products she sells, Shelley Beavers said, "While helping anyone who wants to support their health and fitness, the new website strives to assist the population 40 and above. By aiding others in maintaining their youth, to reduce sagging, dry hair and age-related weight gain, as well as helping to keep muscle mass are imperative to retain youthfulness. Plus, feeling great at any age gives people a sense of identity and enables them to feel good about who they are."
